- Between 1 and 8 September 1950 the Panzer Kaserne on Jenaerstrasse, Weimar (M 51/J 57), was occupied by about 250 troops who wore black-bordered red epaulets. About 20 percent of the troops were officers and about 60 percent of the EM were recruits. The unit apparently belonged to the Soviet kommandatura or the SCC. No motor vehicles were seen entering or leaving the installation. * Motor vehicles

_____ were seen on the streets near the Panzer Kaserne. The villas opposite the installation were occupied by dependents of officers, apparently of the SCC.

- The Sophien Krankenhaus (hospital) was occupied by about 300 troops, about 70 percent of whom were officers. Of the officers, about 80 percent wore red-bordered black epaulets, about 10 percent black-bordered red, about 5 percent black-bordered black and about 5 percent blue-bordered black epaulets. About 80 percent of the EM wore black-bordered red epaulets, and about 20 percent red-bordered black epaulets. The hospital building seemed to house a high unit headquarters. Intensive motor traffic and many field grade officers were seen there.

- From 1 to 10 September 1950 the Flak Kaserne on Ettersburgerstrasse quartered about 500 troops who wore red-bordered black epaulets with artillery and tank insignia. About half of the troops were recruits. Drill and training with three guns was observed. Drivers were trained on truck _____. The gun emplacement on Ettersberg was still there. The crews usually held gun drill in the morning and cleaned guns in the afternoon.

- Billeting Area I of the Tannenberg Kaserne was occupied by only a small detail who wore red-bordered black epaulets without insignia. Billeting Area II of the installation was occupied by about 400 troops wearing red-bordered black epaulets without branch-of-service insignia.
